

PRIME in partnership with Zero Gravity

Who we are

Zero Gravity is a newly launched digital app which connects talented students from socio-economically disadvantaged backgrounds with existing undergraduates in one-to-one video-mentoring sessions. We're completely free for students - forever.

Social impact

Powered by free support from undergraduates, we're on a mission to ensure that, regardless of their backgrounds, all talented students have the chance to achieve their university ambitions.

Our app is crucial to reversing the disruption caused by Covid-19 for these students. In our first three weeks, over 2000 members signed-up on our digital app. This includes over 300 aspiring law students and law undergraduate mentors, and counting.

Our partnership with PRIME

We've partnered with PRIME because of our common mission: to ensure that someone's background is never a barrier to achieving their potential.

PRIME's member firms are committed to maintaining contact with, and providing ongoing support to, aspiring lawyers. Zero Gravity will add to that support by working with your newly-inspired work experience students to navigate the daunting university application process with our video-mentoring programme. Together, we will give them the best possible start on their journeys to become the next generation of diverse law firm talent.

How you can help

PRIME invites you to recommend Zero Gravity to the students attending your PRIME schemes and to your PRIME alumni who are now undergraduates. Signing-up takes 60 seconds!

For undergraduates All aspiring lawyers - studying any undergraduate degree subject - can become mentors to inspire the next generation of top talent.

For sixth-form students All of your recent work experience students entering Year 13 can apply for a Zero Gravity mentor to help them reach the university of their dreams. In turn, they will become mentors to future aspiring lawyers.
