

'Why not Law?'

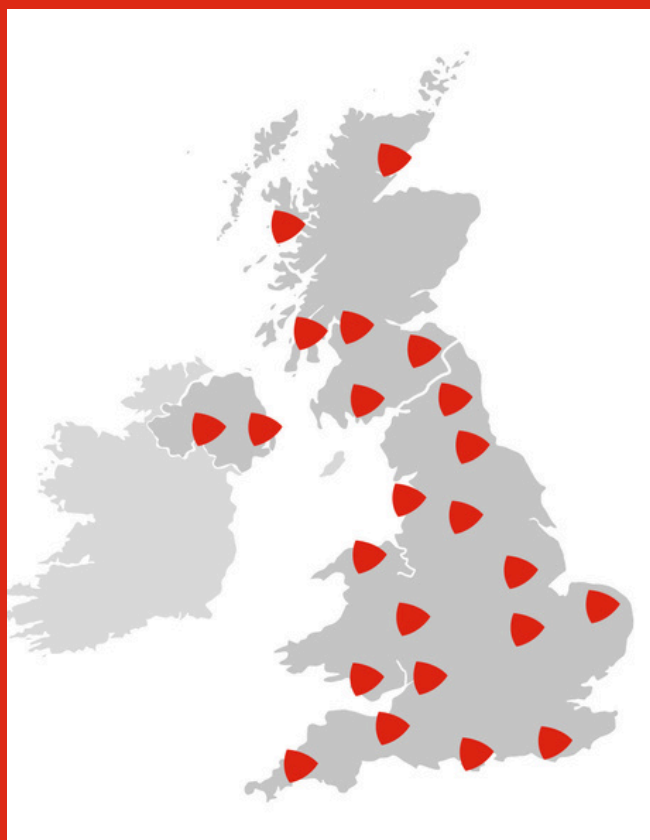

A PRIME workshop delivered to school pupils, changing their perceptions of who can have a career in law and increase their understanding of the routes into law.

2023-24

1,137

In 2023-24 we reached 1,137 students in 29 schools in social mobility cold spot locations.

The workshops were delivered to students aged 12-14.

"I thought it worked very well. Excellent use of guest speakers from the North East of England."

Teacher

"My favourite part was learning about how to get into law because I now know the ways I can do it."

Student

"The facilitator was great, prepared us and made us feel at ease. I thought the program was well organised and kept the children engaged throughout the period."

Volunteer

75

15 law firms supported our workshops by providing 75 volunteers who interacted with young people, sharing their own experiences and feeding back on students' performance.

90%

90% of the students that attended our workshop now think that anyone can pursue a career in law, regardless of their background. 87% were more aware of the different routes into a career in law.

97%

97% of law firm volunteers would take part in the project again.